Fear For Belize

Hattie Slam To Honduras

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Giant hurricane Hattie smashed into British Honduras today, possibly inflicting a disaster on the capital city of Belize, and spread flash floods through the British crown colony and on deep into Guatemala.

Miami Weather Bureau storm forecasters said Belize, a city of 31,000 population, may have suffered a disaster as a 15-foot tide pushed up by the hurricane blasted the coastline.

Such a tide, said forecaster Gilbert Clark, might have engulfed the city.

The hurricane center struck directly at Belize at 7:30 a.m. (EST). For hours, the city was pounded by mighty winds and tides.

At 11 a.m. (EST), Hattie was centered near latitude 17 north, longitude 88.8 west, about 50 miles southwest of Belize. It was moving west-southwest at 10 miles per hour.

The steady hurricane winds around the center had dropped from 150 to 100 m.p.h.

Clark said Belize took the highest winds and strongest tides the storm could throw.

"There could be a disaster there," said forecaster Gilbert Clark. "This hurricane is big enough to do it."

The capital lies almost at sea level. A storm tide striking the coast would meet no resistance except from a sea wall which forecasters said would be inadequate. The shoreline is barren and swampy.

Residents of Belize fled from their wooden homes to public shelters Monday night. Power failed at 4 a.m. as first gales from the hurricane began to lash the colony. A city official reported: "We look for a severe lashing."

Bennett Resigns As City, County CD Director

Fred H. Bennett has resigned as civil defense director for Sedalia and Pettis County.

In a letter Monday to Mayor Abe Silverman, Bennett said he did not have time to handle the job as city director of civil defense. A second letter Tuesday morning to county officials announced his withdrawal from the county post also. Earlier it had been reported Bennett's resignation from the city post would not affect his job as county director.

Bennett said in his letter he felt the county needed a professional director and that he did not feel he could meet the standards outlined recently by President Kennedy. He urged continued support of the civil defense program by the Pettis County Court.

Bennett's resignation from the two civil defense posts becomes effective Wednesday. City and county officials have made no mention of a replacement for Bennett.

Bomb Exceeded 50-Megaton

Shock, Anger Around World

Anti-Soviet Demonstrations Staged In Britain and Italy

LONDON (AP)—Shock waves of anger and condemnation beat around the world today as a result of the Soviet Union's super-bomb blasts.

Anti-Soviet demonstrations were staged in Britain and Italy. Government leaders condemned the nuclear explosions as bald defiance of world opinion. Newspapers denounced the blasts as madness, a brutal crime against humanity, as a terror intended to force the non-Communist world into cowering surrender.

The Soviet press and radio made no mention of Monday's big bomb blast, the most powerful ever set off by man.

But Soviet Premier Khrushchev told a restricted meeting of the Soviet party congress in the Kremlin at its closing session Russia's big bomb was exploded Monday. He said it "proved somewhat bigger" than the 50 megatons that the scientists had calculated "but we won't get angry with them for this."

A hint that the tests were over was seen in a Moscow radio report that a convoy of transport ships and icebreakers was forming to leave the area of Novaya Zemlya, the arctic island site of the experiments believed to have culminated in an explosion of about 50 megatons.

Seismographs in Sweden and Britain recorded a new shock wave today. A seismologist at Kew Observatory in England said the shock may have been from a 15- or 20-megaton nuclear device, but scientists at Sweden's Uppsala Observatory said it appeared to be a normal earth tremor.

Using unusually strong language, Indian Prime Minister Nehru declared Monday's giant explosion was highly regrettable and "no amount of argument that it was done in self-defense could wash off the wrong."

But most African and Asian government leaders were silent or mild in their reaction.

Halts Flow Of Army Cars On Autobahn

BERLIN (AP)—The U. S. Army appears to have stopped sending its military assistance cars along the lifeline autobahn between Berlin and West Germany.

An informed source said no military assistance cars had made the 110-mile trip between West Berlin and West Germany for more than 30 hours since one was turned back by the Soviets early Monday.

West Berlin authorities had reported the cars moving without hindrance, but that may have been confusion with other U.S. military traffic. Numerous jeeps and heavy vehicles as well as staff sedans have been traveling over the super highway in the move of a U.S. engineer company from West Berlin to West Germany.

U.S. authorities would not comment on the report the trips had been called off.

The source for the report assumed they had been halted while U.S. officials discussed the matter with Soviet arm authorities.

The Americans sent the patrols along the autobahn to give assistance to American motorists who had trouble while traveling through Communist East Germany. The Soviets contend such U.S. patrols are unnecessary because the Red Army is responsible for the route.

U.S. and Soviet tanks remained in readiness only 10 minutes apart on each side of the Communists' wall through Berlin.

While American and Soviet officials in Moscow discussed identification procedures on the Berlin border, the Soviets covered their tanks with canvas. The American tank crews, who had been sleeping inside their vehicles since last Friday, moved into tents.

The checkpoint at Friedrichstrasse was manned by a mere handful of U.S. military policemen. Two armored personnel carriers were parked 100 yards away. Spectators who had been present day and night for almost a week disappeared.

Nixon Stand On Running Appears Firm

Tells Rocky And Goldwater To Fight It Out

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Fight it out in the primaries, Richard M. Nixon advises Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

The former vice president and losing candidate for the presidency last year said Monday night Rockefeller and Goldwater should "clash in primaries" to determine who would be the best candidate to challenge President Kennedy in 1964.

Nixon, who is seeking the Republican nomination for governor of California, said he will not campaign for the GOP presidential nomination. He declared Monday night he would not enter any primaries in 1964.

He addressed an overflow crowd of 8,000—more than 1,500 diners at $100 a plate and a gallery of 6,500—in the Syracuse War Memorial Auditorium. Nixon returned to New York City after the dinner aboard Rockefeller's private plane, on which he and the governor had traveled to Syracuse.

Nixon refused, both at the dinner and a press conference that preceded it, to take sides between Rockefeller and Goldwater as the Republican presidential nominee in 1964. He said his mission was to unite the Republican party, not divide it.

In his formal talk the former vice president said he was "mightily proud that the Republican party has a man of such capabilities, stature and voter appeal as the governor of New York."

Rockefeller has said he will make no announcements regarding the 1964 presidential race until after 1962 state election in New York, when he will be up for re-election. In other comments, Nixon said: "He agreed with Rockefeller's statement of last Friday that the United States should resume testing of nuclear weapons in the atmosphere."

He felt a properly trained Peace Corps would make contributions to backward nations of the world but the present, youthful members of the corps were not equipped to deal with "hard-nosed Communist operatives."

If the United Nations admitted Red China, a massive public opinion could develop in the United States against the world body and lead to American withdrawal.

Got a Charge

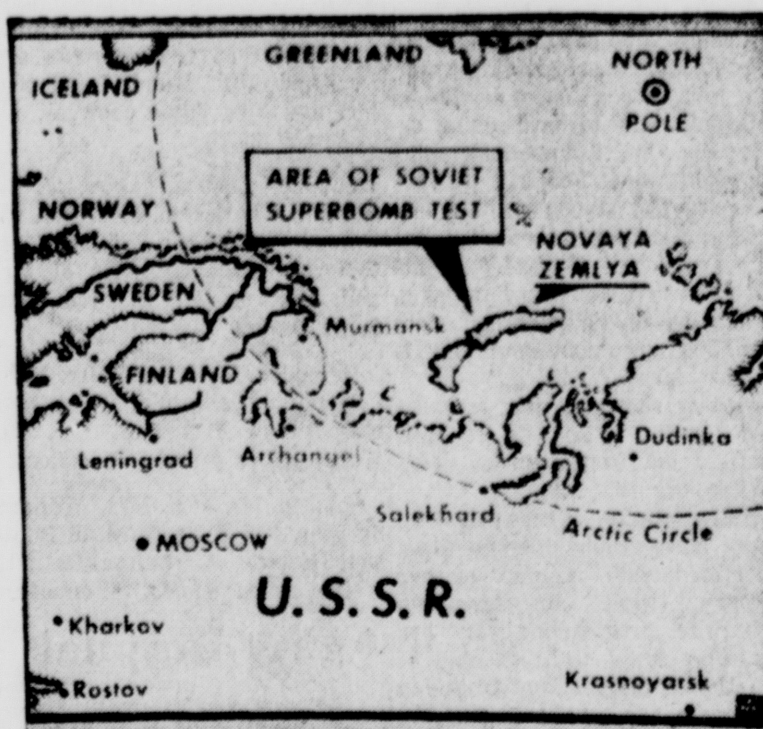

The weather played havoc with the sleep of many an auto mechanic last night. Seems the dampness was getting to car batteries all about town.

Mostly cloudy and mild through Wednesday. Low tonight in upper 40s; high Wednesday in upper 60s. Light northerly winds tonight.

The temperature Tuesday was 53 at 7 a.m. and 57 at 1 p.m. Low Monday night was 32, with .46 inches of rainfall.

The temperature one year ago today, was high 50; low 40; two years ago, high 58; low 51; three years ago, high 58; low 40.

Urges Support of JFK

Leadership Needed By US, States Ike

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower says the United States needs leadership "which would never belittle the United States" and "never extends a welcome to such an outlaw as Red China."

"I am sure that I voice the determination of all — regardless of party — in saying that we will stand by the President as he devotes his energies to defying the international bullies and protecting American rights and liberties," Eisenhower said in a speech Monday night.

The speech climaxed a series of appearances by Eisenhower in behalf of a Republican congressional candidate.

Among other things, the ex-president (1) defended the sale of F86 jet fighters to Yugoslavia, saying the planes were obsolete; (2) said the United States has no choice except to test atomic weapons; (3) said the "century-old one-party (Democratic) system is a calamity for the South," and (4) criticized big government with its "indiscriminate federal handouts" and "spendthrift programs."

In his speech to a crowd of 9,000, Eisenhower drew on the loudest of frequent cheers when he called for "the kind of leadership which would never belittle the United States and thus dismay our friends and hearten our enemies, that stands steadfastly in all international councils for principle and right, and never extends a welcome to such an outlaw as Red China is today."

Eisenhower said reports that the earth's atmosphere is being polluted by atomic tests are "greatly exaggerated."

"I decided about three years ago that the United States would not resume testing in the atmosphere," he told a news conference. "but I said that this would go until we found out about the Soviet readiness to reach an agreement."

He said the Soviet attitude leaves the United States "no choice but to test."

Republican leaders were jubilant over Eisenhower's appearance in behalf of John W. Goode, the lone Republican in Saturday's special congressional election.

Goode, 38, and four Democrats seek the seat from which Democratic Paul Kilday resigned last month to become a federal judge.

Foreign Minister Ahti Karjalainen headed by plane today for Helsinki by way of San Francisco.

The Finnish president stayed behind to complete his visit to Hawaii. He was to leave this afternoon for Los Angeles, last stop on his tour of the United States.

The U.S.S.R. called on Finland to join with it to thwart what the Soviets called a growing West German threat to use the Baltic Sea as a jumping off place for war. The move was seen as an effort to bring independent Finland in line with Warsaw Pact nations.

Kekkonen and his official party would not comment on the proposal.

It took several hours to get word to Kekkonen on the Soviet bid. He was sightseeing on the east coast of Maui Island, about 130 miles from Honolulu.

Mistake Made By Scientists

Nikita Not Angry With Them For This, He Tells Congress

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev declared today the giant bomb exploded Monday exceeded the 50-megaton calculation of the scientists but "we won't get angry with them for this."

The statement was made in a brief speech at the closing session of the Communist party congress in the Kremlin. It was the first announcement in Russia that the bomb had been exploded, and even then it was made first only to a restricted session of the congress.

"The scientists made a slight mistake in the evaluation of the bomb," Khrushchev said. "It proved somewhat bigger than 50-megatons, but we won't get angry with them for this."

LONDON (AP) — Britain will back the United States in testing big nuclear bombs if this becomes necessary to maintain the balance of power and preserve world freedom, Prime Minister Macmillan said tonight.

The announcement brought a storm of applause, of cheering and some laughter from the congress.

Khrushchev quickly calmed the delegates with a warning that to achieve the program "we will need work, work and only work."

The statement was made to the full membership of 4,500, with no Western foreign correspondents present.

Earlier in the brief concluding session, Ekaterina Furtseva, only woman member, was dropped from the Presidium, ruling group of the party.

There was no explanation. She presumably retains her job in the government as minister of culture.

Premier Khrushchev was re-elected the party's first secretary.

Also dropped from the Presidium was Nuritdin Mukhitdinov, only representative of the Asian peoples in the U.S.S.R.

Re-elected to the Presidium were Khrushchev; President Leonid I. Brezhnev; party Secretary Frol R. Kozlov; First Deputy Premier A. N. Kosygin; party Secretary O. V. Kuusinen; First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan; N. V. Podgorny, first secretary of the Ukrainian Communist party; D. S. Polyansky, the Russian Republic premier; party Secretary Mikhail A. Suslov; and N. M. Shvernik, chairman of the party's Control Commission.

One new man was chosen to the presidium: Gennadi Ivanovich Voronov, a young agricultural expert who has been mentioned as working at Khrushchev's right hand.

Selection of party officers was the final act of the 22nd Soviet Communist party congress, which then adjourned. It had been meeting in the Kremlin since Oct. 17.

Keys and Courtesy Cards Mean Little

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Mayor Kenneth Oka handed out a batch of keys to the city and police courtesy cards—and gave the lockdown on both.

Welcoming the Air Traffic Control Association to its convention Monday the mayor said: "All the time I've been mayor, I've never found a door the key would open—not even the men's wash room."

"And the police courtesy cards—they just mean that while here you should be courteous to our police."

Rayburn, 79, was brought from his room on a stretcher. His eyes were closed. A towel was around his head. He has been under treatment since Oct. 2.

Chides Adlai For Failure Of Invasion

Should Have Fired UN Ambassador, Van Fleet Says

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—The Tampa Tribune quotes Gen. James A. Van Fleet as saying Adlai E. Stevenson, ambassador to the United Nations, should have been fired because of the Cuban invasion which fizzled.

A U. N. spokesman said today Stevenson has no comment on the statement attributed to Van Fleet.

Van Fleet said also that Berlin and Laos are lost and that there is only a 50-50 chance of keeping South Viet Nam out of Communist control, the Tribune said in today's editions.

Van Fleet, former commander of the 8th Army in Korea, was to report to Ft. Bragg, N.C., today. He was called out of retirement to supervise the training of Army units in guerrilla warfare.

The Tribune said Van Fleet departed from his text in a talk on Florida's water resources before the Natural Resources and Waterways Committee in nearby Lakeland Monday night.

He was quoted as saying Berlin was lost when "they made the agreement at the end of World War II."

The Tribune account added: He said Viet Nam has a strong national pride, "but a white face has no place in that country."

Van Fleet said Stevenson "should have been fired when he said he would not support the armed action by this country against (Fidel) Castro during the ill-fated Cuban invasion."

Jury Selected To Hear Case On Hub Caps

A jury trial for Thomas Alce Wilson, Whiteman AFB, charged with tampering with a motor vehicle at the fairgrounds during State Fair Week, began in Circuit Court Tuesday morning with the selection of a jury and the hearing of some testimony by state's witnesses.

The tampering with a motor vehicle is in connection with the theft of some hub caps from cars while the cars were parked on the fair grounds. In the morning session Sheriff Emmett Fairfax produced some hubcaps which Prosecuting Attorney J. R. Fritz introduced as state's evidence.

Wilson was arrested with another man, who is awaiting trial on a similar charge, Wilson was identified by members of the Highway Patrol as one of the men arrested, and the hubcaps were identified as those found in a car in which Wilson was riding just prior to his arrest.

At press time William F. Brown, attorney for the defense, had not presented his case.

Jurors picked from a panel of 26 prospective jurors are: Mrs. Lewis Green, Mrs. Floyd Lujin, Mrs. Leo Greene, Myra McFarland, Francis Judd, Higgins Warren, Walton Berry, Wallace Bullock, Eldon DeMott, Clay Leitch, Walter Olson and Russell Haight.

Democratic Sales Pitch Isn't Same

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Charles H. Brower, president of the big Madison Avenue advertising agency Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborne said in a Chicago speech the other day that the United States should sell democracy to the world with the techniques used to peddle cornflakes and soap.

In the days since I have been watching TV commercials with special interest, attempting to figure out which ones could be adapted easily to hard-selling democracy. And I just don't think it would work. For instance:

Pretty girl stands smiling into camera, holding a book marked "Congressional Record," while man's voice is heard singing, "Nine out of 10 Hollywood stars use this document—and life is shinier, lovelier with it."

Man is shown holding a ballot and saying, "For fast, FAST relief from pain of dictatorship use this..."

Native woman is shown looking sadly at a grubby kitchen towel decorated with a map of her country, while an American housewife is smiling at her gleaming towel with its map of the United States. The American housewife says, "Not just clean, but clean clear through."

Man and woman are seen struggling up a mountain through thick clouds of swirling smoke, while a voice says, "Come up, Up, UP to the cool, clean air of democracy."

The well-tailored huckster could exhort alien viewers to "try the democracy with the new wonder ingredient—the vote" or "Why do Americans have all the fun?" or "Double your pleasure, double your fun with a bicameral legislature," or talk about the "extra margin" provided by the court system.

But no matter how you switch the pitches, they don't seem right. Better we should muddle along with our usual conservative institutional type of soft-selling our system. It's more convincing—and dignified.

Sunday night's super-special drama, "The Power and the Glory" on CBS came off a close second in the size of its audience, according to an over-night survey by ARB rating service. NBC's "Bonanza" was well in front for the first hour of the show.

The big show starring Laurence Olivier pulled out in front by a narrow margin for the second hour, mostly because many viewers turned off their sets for the night.

Square Dancers Plan to Attend Columbia Event

Sedalia square dancers are making plans to attend the second annual festival of the Missouri Federation of Square and Round Dance Clubs Friday and Saturday, Nov. 3-4, in Columbia.

The dance club federation is two years old and is headed by Ray McCory of Sedalia as state president. The group's first festival was held in Sedalia in conjunction with the 1960 centennial celebration. The Holiday Inn motel at Columbia will serve as headquarters this year.

The state organization has divided Missouri into five districts plus Kansas City and St. Louis and dancers in these groups number in the thousands, it was reported.

The program opens Friday night with a pre-festival dance from 8 to 11 p. m. with all callers present to call. Saturday dancing will begin at 9 a. m. and continue to midnight.

During the day square and round dance workshops and a luncheon are slated with a style show scheduled for 11 a. m. to 1 p. m. An after-dance breakfast and party will round out the Saturday events.

State callers will be used for the Saturday workshops and for the Saturday night dancing, it was announced.

Jet Economy Fare Set By Airline Firm

WASHINGTON (AP)—Continental Airlines announced Monday a jet economy fare about 25 per cent below jet coach fares.

The proposal came in the face of announcements by two other airlines—United and National—that they would increase fares.

It coincided with—and apparently contributed to—the announced failure of the trunk airlines to agree on a sort of new austerity in passenger services, suggested by the Civil Aeronautics Board as a means of halting the cost spiral.

A specially appointed committee of all the trunk operators concluded a daylong conference with a statement that it had been unable to reach unanimous agreement on several proposals to simplify cabin service.

Shortly thereafter, Robert F. Six, president of Continental, announced plans to put into effect Dec. 1 a no-frills service at the greatly reduced economy fare.

Continental's economy class passengers would receive no meal service and no liquor, either free or pay-by-the-drink.

They would be able to buy box lunches at the boarding gate in major terminals and would receive free coffee, tea or milk.

They would ride in the rear of Continental's jets, in seats less roomy and less well upholstered than those of first class in the forward compartments, or coach in the middle part of the plane.

Ficken's car was towed in by the Parks wrecker.

A 1950 Chevrolet driven by Earl Wayne Green, Route 5, left the roadway and hit a tree at Booneville and North Heard at 5:14 p. m. Monday, damaging the front end of the car. The driver told police he took to the ditch to avoid hitting another car. He was charged with driving while intoxicated.

Crowding Miami Schools

Language Barrier Arises In Teaching Young Cubans

EDITOR'S NOTE—The arrival in Miami of thousands of Cubans fleeing Castro's dictatorship has strained the city's resources in many ways. One of the greatest challenges is in the schools.

By LOUIS UCHITELLE
MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—After a frustrating first-grade reading period, the young teacher told her pupils to sit down and put their papers in their desks.

A few did. Most didn't. Of the entire class of 25 Cuban refugees, only three speak English.

As the pupils stood there, smiling uncertainly, the teacher tried again: "Sit down—sientase. Put your papers away—like this."

Finally, as even her demonstration failed, she asked a bilingual student to tell the others what she had said. A burst of Spanish from Juanita brought quick action and neat desks.

This teacher was trying to deal with one of the most difficult situations in Miami's widespread effort to teach English to more than 80,000 Cubans who have fled from Fidel Castro's regime and settled here.

Perhaps as many as 18,000 are studying English, including 9,500 children in the public schools, 3,000 in the parochial schools and 3,000 in adult classes run by the public school system.

The Riverside Elementary School has 1,380 pupils and 90 per cent of them are Cubans.

The classes have been divided into those in which all the students speak English and those in which few speak English.

"Until this year, we mixed the English and non-English speaking students in the same classes and I think the Cuban youngsters learned faster because children are natural mimics," said Edith Chase, Riverside's principal.

Ed Hurst, an assistant superintendent of schools, explained: "We must run an American school system. Since a teacher teaches to the level of the majority of her class, if too many Spanish-speaking students change that level then the classes must be separated."

School officials have announced that 7,500 of the 9,500 Cuban children can't speak English. Most of them are at the elementary level. Roughly 25 of the 150 elementary schools in the system have separated classes.

The meeting was presided over by Elmer L. McClung, with invocation by Oscar DeWolf. Fred Brink led the singing with Miss Lillian Fox at the piano. Fred Crnic was program chairman.

Guests at the meeting introduced by Jacob F. Deck, were Rotarians Waldo Feaster, Clinton, and Kelly Williams, Steele, Mo., Jim Belmer, Sedalia, guest of Charles Edwards; Bill Hiatt, Sedalia, guest of Bill Rich and Bob Cribbs, Port Alleganey, Pa., guest of Larry Griffith; and Jack Taylor, Smith-Cotton student.

The bride wore a floor length gown of frost white organdy over ruffled tulle and taffeta. The fitted basque bodice was fashioned with a Sabrina neckline and bracelet sleeves. Appliques of scalloped lace were used to border the sleeves and neckline. The skirt, which was gathered with great fullness to the elongated waistline, also featured lace appliques which were shaped in a circle design. Her headdress was a flat hat piece which held her imported illusion veil. She carried an arrangement of white mums.

Miss Arline Hunnius Exchanges Vows With Mr. Jimmie D. Law

At nine o'clock in the morning Saturday, Sept. 30, Miss Arline Sue Hunnius, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Hunnius, 1314 East 11th, and Mr. Jimmie Duane Law, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Law, Princeton, W. Va., were united in marriage at the Whiteman Air Force Base Chapel. The double ring ceremony was performed by Father Paul S. Hanev.

Mrs. Richard Powers, WAFB, played traditional wedding selections on the organ and accompanied Mrs. Richard Brusewitz, of WAFB.

The bride, escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown fashioned of Chantilly lace and silk organza over tulle and taffeta. The lace bodice was designed with bracelet sleeves and a scalloped Sabrina neckline. Folds of organza defined the high Empire styling. The bouffant silk skirt with its short brush train, was featured with a capucchi bustle accented with small flat bows of organza. A crown of pearls held her imported fingertip illusion veil. She carried an arrangement of white Fuji mums.

Mrs. Shirley Collins, 503 East 13th, served as matron of honor. She wore an orchid chiffon over taffeta dress, featuring a scoop neckline and a full skirt. She carried fuji mums.

The bridesmaid, Miss Calva Paxton, 201 East Saline, wore a pink chiffon over taffeta similar to that worn by the matron of honor. She carried pink fuji mums.

Sgt. Fernando Guerrero, WAFB, served the groom as best man with Mr. Harley Kuhlman, 2501 East Broadway, as groomsman. Mr. J. L. Collins, 906 South Osage, Mr. A. N. Salmon, 1305 East Ninth, and Mr. Charles Rocks, Buncheon, ushered.

The flower girl, Miss Rita Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Collins, wore a perfect replica of the bride's gown.

Master John "Dubby" Hunnius, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Hunnius, brother of the bride, was ringbearer.

The bride's mother chose a beige dress with brown and beige accessories and a corsage of baby mums in rust and brown.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Old Missouri Homestead with approximately 50 guests attending.

Floral arrangements decorated the room.

Servers were, Mrs. J. L. Collins, 906 South Osage, Mrs. A. N. Salmon, 1305 East Ninth, Miss Marilyn Strader, 1804 South Harrison, and Mrs. Dillon Huddleston, 801 East 15th. Mrs. Lawrence Collins, 819 East Broadway, had charge of the guest book. In charge of the gifts was Mrs. Gary Franklin, Route 2.

After the reception, the couple left for a honeymoon trip. For traveling, the bride chose a navy blue suit with navy and white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

The couple is now at home at 1314 East 11th.

The bride graduated from Smith-Cotton High School and is employed at Hunnius Upholstery. The groom is a graduate of Princeton High School, Princeton, W. Va., and is presently stationed at Whiteman AFB.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Weymler, Effie McCollough, Smithton; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vogt, Sweet Springs; and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rocks of Buncheon.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

Self-expression takes many forms in the toddler. Imagination begins to run rampant. Showing off becomes second nature. Daredevil tactics dominate the daily scene. While self-assurance grows by leaps and bounds, there are still many, many times when your toddler will slip back to the security of babyhood and need mother's guiding hand to help him over hurdles.

New Finger Food for self-feeders.

Gerber Meat Sticks make playing "pick-up sticks" a worthwhile pleasure because they're so nutritious. These tiny wienies are made from selected Armour Pork and Beef for high quality protein. Nonfat dry milk solids are added for extra protein and other nutrients. Tasty! You bet. They're mildly seasoned—extra low in fat.

Video views. Certainly TV can be a boon to a busy mother as well as an educational force for a toddler. But TV should not be a substitute for real experiences and educational training from mother. By limiting viewing and selecting suitable programs, you can make TV work to your advantage... and your child's.

Tabletime tactics. Most toddlers go through a stage of saying "No" to everything. If it attracts attention at mealtime, saying "No" can become a habit... almost a game. (Sometimes it's even more fun than eating.) It should be ignored like any other play for attention. Baby will stop sooner if you don't listen.

Refusal of food is usually minimized when you serve Gerber. Because they have the "semi-grown-up" flavors toddlers take to... an evenly mixed texture that's just right for tots with a few teeth.

Reminder: baby cereals are still an important part of a toddler's diet because of the iron and other important nutrients they provide. Gerber Cereals are rich in iron, also offer calcium, B-vitamins, Gerber Baby Foods, Fremont, Michigan.

It's a Hazard of the Job

The office of the United States presidency, being the most powerful on earth, inevitably works a special magic on those who hold it. When its full weight descended on Harry Truman in April, 1945, he said to a group of newsmen: "Boys, pray for me."

Eight years later, at the end of his regime, he would more likely have suggested that they pray for his opponents.

During much of his White House career, former President Eisenhower was pictured as chafing under the burdens of office and eager to gain the retirement of Gettysburg.

Now that he has it, he is said to be bored with it, and is hitting the road often to rip into President Kennedy.

Most observers — whatever their view of Eisenhower's criticisms — sense in them the ring of conviction. And it seems fair to suggest that this is born at least in part from the natural feeling of an ex-president that he knows the White House job.

Historians frequently point out that presidents commonly want a second term because they believe their "work is unfinished."

Some scholars have noted that even before the time of Franklin Roosevelt an occasional White House occupant toyed with the third term idea.

Kennedy was annoyed at a strong speech Eisenhower delivered in Chicago. He is said to be further irritated by a repeat performance in New York. He feels that Ike's knowledge of the "inside" should act as a curb rather than a spur to criticism.

The record of history indicates this is too much to expect.

The ex-president, whoever he is, thinks himself uniquely qualified to judge the acts of his successor.

Moreover, if his party looks to him for leadership, as Republicans do to Eisenhower, he will be more encouraged to speak out.

One responsible Republican puts it this way:

"The notion that Eisenhower should muffle his criticism strikes me as nonsense. He is our star. He is still a commanding figure in the nation. Why should his voice, above all, be silenced?"

Obviously Eisenhower does not intend to fall silent.

Obviously, too, Kennedy is going to have to live with his assaults as one of the facts of presidential life.

When it comes his turn to retire, he'll probably be chopping at his successor in the same way.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Battle for Cheaper, Safer Drugs

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON—For two years, Tennessee's tall, taciturn Sen. Estes Kefauver has been butting his head against the opposition of the American Medical Association and American Pharmaceutical Association over the need for cheaper and safer drugs. Today (Oct. 31), he will begin another round of hearings in his unrelenting battle to force reforms upon the industry.

Already many doctors and druggists have broken ranks with the organizations that claim to speak for them. Even the respected New England Journal of Medicine has now dared to defy the AMA-APHA combine.

In a recent issue, the Journal blistered the AMA for opposing the safeguards which Kefauver has urged upon drug manufacturers.

"The less scrupulous members of the industry may object to such requirements perhaps because they cannot always provide the necessary proof," observed the magazine. "It is against them that this legislation is really aimed. It is most regrettable, therefore, that the spokesmen for the organized medical profession should be the ones to defend them."

The Journal agreed with Health, Education, and Welfare Secretary Abe Ribicoff who recently warned the public that "A hog is protected against worthless drugs, but you are not."

The editorial charged that the board of trustees had ignored the professional views of AMA's own council on drugs. The opposition to the Kefauver reforms, it said, "Did not represent the opinion of the majority of the council and indeed some of them, unsolicited, had individually urged the trustees not to oppose this provision of the bill."

"They consider this opposition unwise and not in the best interest of the medical profession or the health of the public."

One explanation for AMA's stubborn opposition is suggested by Kefauver who claims that the AMA draws more revenue from the pharmaceutical manufacturers through advertising than from its own membership.

APHA, for its part, is opposed to any unpleasant publicity which might hurt drug sales. The organization's chief Washington lobbyist, William Apple, has gone so far as to make phone calls to TV sponsors and magazines in an effort to hush up such news.

Two-Bedroom Sam
Just as twin-holstered heroes of the old west were often called "Two-Gun," Baltimore's balding congressman Sam Friedel has earned the moniker, "Two-Bedroom Sam."

He likes plenty of bedroom space when he's off inspecting outposts like Hong Kong and Paris for the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee.

He and his wife are now on a round-the-world inspection trip, which his office candidly describes as a "vacation" but which government vouchers list as "official business."

To accommodate them, the State Department cabled its faraway embassies in advance to "obtain two bedrooms with bath or baths best available" for the peripatetic pair.

The congressman's office, while admitting he was "away on vacation," was vague about his exact itinerary. More specific, the State Department cable gave his schedule as follows: Honolulu, four days; Tokyo, eight days; Hong Kong, seven days; Bangkok, two days; New Delhi, three days; Tel Aviv, five days; Athens, three days; Paris, three days.

The cable also authorized him to "use local currencies" or counterpart funds. This means he can withdraw all the local cash he wants from each embassy. All he needs to do is sign vouchers; no accounting is asked or given.

Guest Editorial

BANGOR DAILY NEWS: And Then, of Course, There Are Taxes. — Did you ever watch the tide creep in along a quiet stretch of beach? It inches along almost imperceptibly, but in time the inches add up to feet. The high cost of living index reminds us of the tide. The HCL rise in July was only one-half of an index point. Still, it brought the index to a new record level. And gave July an index figure of 128.1, as against the 100 points of the base years of 1947-49. Further, the 1947-49 prices are figured as base or average, yet they are substantially higher than those of, say, 1937-39.

And so the rising cost of living reminds us of the tide. Yet there is one mighty great difference. The ocean tides climb so far and then they ebb. The living index seems to have no turning point.

Kennedy was annoyed at a strong speech Eisenhower delivered in Chicago. He is said to be further irritated by a repeat performance in New York. He feels that Ike's knowledge of the "inside" should act as a curb rather than a spur to criticism.

The record of history indicates this is too much to expect.

The ex-president, whoever he is, thinks himself uniquely qualified to judge the acts of his successor.

Moreover, if his party looks to him for leadership, as Republicans do to Eisenhower, he will be more encouraged to speak out.

One responsible Republican puts it this way:

Obviously, too, Kennedy is going to have to live with his assaults as one of the facts of presidential life.

When it comes his turn to retire, he'll probably be chopping at his successor in the same way.

No Accounting

When two-bedroom Sam gets around to it, he is supposed to submit the totals to the House Administration Committee. Since he happens to be the No. 2 Democrat on the committee, it isn't likely to question his spending.

He is only the No. 8 Democrat on the Commerce Committee, but this committee deals with foreign commerce, which provides a better excuse for overseas travel.

The justification for his trip was spelled out in the State Department cable in these careful words:

"Representative Samuel N. Friedel, member Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, will be traveling Asia and Europe on official committee business; re: study of certain phases foreign commerce as affected by mutual security program. Mrs. Friedel will accompany."

The cable was signed by John S. Leahy, the State Department's chief lobbyist on Capitol Hill, who ordered each embassy to "meet" and "assist" the Friedels.

In addition to requesting "two bedrooms with bath or baths" at each stop, Leahy also called for a "control officer" to be assigned to the Friedels. This is the polite title for a glorified baggage handler, escort, and guide.

Nothing is too good for Two-Bedroom Sam, it seems, as long as the taxpayers are picking up the tab.

Soviets Rush Tests

The joint chiefs of staff are slightly mystified over the rapid sequence of the Soviet nuclear tests. The Russians haven't taken enough time between tests to analyze the results of one explosion before going ahead with the next.

This means some explosions will have to be repeated if the Soviet scientists expect to get complete results.

One explanation: Premier Khrushchev, facing an ideological showdown with the Chinese Communists, wanted to remind Red leaders of Soviet power. Hence he hurried through a series of multi-megaton explosions while the Communist Congress was still in session.

Significantly, the worst fallout is expected to settle over Red China which is directly in the path of the prevailing winds from Russia.

The most alarming feature of the Soviet series was evidence that the Russians actually used missiles to test nuclear warheads. The United States still hasn't fired a hydrogen-headed missile.

This has now been urged upon President Kennedy as the reason the United States must test-fire its own nuclear warheads in the atmosphere.

The Soviet tests also revealed that Russia is ahead of the United States in developing an anti-missile weapon — ominous news in view of Maj. Gen. John Medaris' warning that the nation which develops the first effective anti-missile defense "will have upset the balance of the world."

Silent Witnesses

In a recent interview with a French official, Red China's Mao Tse-tung offered a bright account of life in his country. Farmers just love the so-called communes, everyone is happy and "difficulties" over food supplies are being overcome.

Reports reaching the West of famine and near-starvation affecting millions of Chinese are wicked distortions, says Mao.

If all this is so, what inspired almost 1,000 of Mao's citizens to try a mass break for freedom? Were they coming out to tell us, in a rush of enthusiasm, how great things are in China?

What a pity, then, that only 41 made it, and that many who didn't were either shot or mangled by Red police dogs.

Thought for Today

He is the source of your life in Christ Jesus, whom God made our wisdom, our righteousness and sanctification and redemption. —I Cor. 1:30.

The whole structure of man and of the world is moulded to be the theatre of the redemption of the sinner. Not in Eden, but on Calvary and in heaven, which is the child of Calvary, we see realized the whole idea of God. —I. B. Brown.

The World Today

Troublesome Ghost Off Nikita's Back

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—At the very moment when he needed the utmost freedom and support at home in dealing with the West on Berlin, Premier Khrushchev has stifled his critics and gotten the full support of the Russian Communist party.

For him the throwing of Stalin's body out of its tomb meant getting a troublesome ghost off his back.

Stalin died in 1953 exactly at the end of an era. Khrushchev took over at the beginning of a new one which needed new ideas for dealings at home and abroad.

So long as Stalin remained a Communist saint, entombed in Moscow Square alongside Lenin, those who disagreed with Khrushchev's way of doing things, when they differed from Stalin's, could accuse him of heresy.

This is exactly what was done by the Red Chinese, the Albanians, and some of the old Bolshevik companions of Stalin, like Vyacheslav Molotov who, although reduced to a minor position, this year still condemned Khrushchev's tactics.

If Khrushchev, in anger or exasperation, had sought by himself to downgrade Stalin or banish him from his tomb to get rid of the memory of him, he would have been accused not only of heresy but of sacrilege.

So he had the Russian Communist party at its 22nd congress this month do it for him when more than 5,000 cheering delegates ordered Stalin's body taken from its tomb and a monument built in Moscow to the victims of his tortures and purges.

Now the Molotovs, the Albanians, the Red Chinese—if they still want to find fault—must do it with the entire Russian Communist party, not with Khrushchev whom the party has so grandly supported.

But it has taken Khrushchev five years to achieve this final degradation of Stalin, pretty good evidence that after he first deposed Stalin in 1956:

1. The myth of Stalin, who the Russian people had been taught was always right, still persisted and remained a measuring stick by which to judge every new or different action Khrushchev took.

2. He had encountered a lot of criticism and even opposition within the Russian Communist party itself in his efforts to free his hands from the grip of the dead man.

Even one year later, in 1957, Khrushchev must have felt a little uncertain about how far he could go in trying to destroy both the myth and memory of Stalin.

In that year, despite what he said in 1956, he still called Stalin a "great Communist" and added "this Stalin we do not want to abandon."

As late as 1959 Khrushchev conceded some Communist party members had opposed his attempt to demolish the Stalin image. So long as his anti-Stalinism could be interpreted as a one-man crusade, he was open to conflict at home, even though minor. And the Stalinist Red Chinese could go after him individually.

But now, after the action of the 22nd party congress, Khrushchev can claim full support by his party for his anti-Stalinism for whatever he does that is the opposite of what Stalin might have done. Anyone who differs with him now inside Russia or outside must be considered anti-party and anti-Russian but not anti-Khrushchev.

By the time Stalin died in 1953 a new world, different from the one he always knew, was coming to birth. New nations, freshly freed from colonialism, were being born.

New techniques for dealing with them were needed. The Russians couldn't overrun Africa and Asia as they had overrun the satellite nations of Europe in the war. Stalin was unsuited. Men in authority have two main instruments for trying to impose their will on others: persuasion and power. Stalin knew only power as he demonstrated in Korea and the Berlin blockade.

At the time of his death, Russia lacked the power of its main adversary: the United States. This country at the time of Stalin's death had the hydrogen bomb and Russia didn't. Russia didn't develop its own hydrogen weapon until some months after Stalin's death.

But once it got it—just because its power of annihilation was so enormous—one wrong step by either great power could mean annihilation for both. So new tactics—like subversion, guerrilla war, foreign aid, propaganda, just to mention a few—were needed.

Khrushchev himself perhaps best summed up his realization of why and how he had to shove the memory of Stalin out of sight when, in 1959, explaining his attacks on Stalin, he said it had to be done to "liberate the creative forces of the people, to open the road toward something new."

Yet, from this moment on Khrushchev is not likely to have peace in his lifetime. For, having degraded Stalin with party support, no matter how hard he works he must always wonder whether the same thing will happen to him when he's dead and some successor wants to free himself from the memory of Khrushchev.

Estates Must Pay Taxes Before the Heirs Share

By FAYE HENLE

Q—If I inherit wealth, do I have to pay a federal tax on my inheritance?—F. V.

A—Dear F. V.: There is no federal inheritance tax. Instead the estate pays a federal and state estate tax. The remainder is distributed to the heirs. However, if you receive income from an estate, their income forms part of your income and is subject to regular and state income taxes.

Q—How are jointly owned savings bonds taxed for estate purposes?—J. B. G.

A—Dear J. B. G.: Taxing is done by two methods. Some states treat co-ownership bonds as held in equal shares by each co-owner and require that one-half of the value of the bonds be reported as part of the gross estate of the deceased co-owner. Other states measure each co-owner's taxable interest in the bonds by the amount he contributed to the purchase price. This means that if the entire purchase price of a bond was contributed by one co-owner no tax would be assessed upon the death of the other. The federal estate tax employs this rule, too. Remember, owning property jointly is not a dodge for paying estate taxes.

Q—The Social Security law provides disability insurance benefits for severe illness or injury. How long would I have to work before I had this protection?—C. C. B.

A—Dear C. C. B.: You must have credit for at least five years work in a 10-year period ending when you are disabled.

Q—I travel by car for business. How much allowance does the government permit on my tax return?—S. G.

A—Dear S. G.: Mileage allowance for use of personal cars on an expense account is now 12 cents a mile.

Q—Joint tenancy in securities (we have $13,000 in stocks) versus a living trust — which is better?—A. B. E.

A—Dear A. B. E.: You are asking which is better — an apple or an orange. Joint tenancy and living trusts are two entirely different instruments, although both apply to handling of securities. With $13,000 involved, I like neither.

Obviously, what you are trying to do — and rightly so — is cut down your inheritance tax. Owning property jointly does not reduce the tax load.

Using a trust instrument does. However, where $13,000 is involved, the living trust is too expensive. Here's what you can do. Disjoin the securities and give your wife a gift. Under the gift tax rule you can do the following make a once-in-a-lifetime gift to anyone up to $30,000 or $60,000 if you choose the marital deduction and your spouse agrees.

You can give away $3,000 each year to as many individuals as you choose, $6,000 again if you use the marital deduction without having to pay a gift tax providing you are not making such a gift "in anticipation of death." This last applies when you die within a two-year period of making the gift unless it can be proven the death was accidental.

Sweden Sets Rock-Hard Blast Protection Example

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON—The United States is making a mistake in not pushing a program of fire-proof blast shelters as protection against nuclear attack.

This is an error some of our European neighbors are not making.

Norway has 60 deep-rock control centers in use. A large number of Norwegian factories have deep-rock shelters for their employees. Norway's mass population shelters are built in solid rock reinforced by steel and concrete.

The West Germans are building large blast shelters near railway stations and large factories. These are said to protect against 20-megaton bombs a mile and a half away.

In Denmark, all new private structures — except very small buildings — must incorporate reasonably reinforced splinter-proof cellars. The government is building public shelters of reinforced concrete.

The Swiss have an active program.

But the Swedes set a prime example. Rock or concrete blast shelters are being built in the central parts of all Swedish cities of 50,000 or more. The "Rock Garage" in the center of Stockholm will give protection to 10,000 persons. Another Stockholm shelter is designed for 15,000. The roofs of these rock rooms are 50 to 65 feet of granite.

The classic in Swedish civil defense construction is a granite grotto carved out of a hill near the center of Vasteras.

It now functions as a complete community center with a garage, workshops, adult education classrooms, gymnasium, experimental theater, restaurant and shooting range. The shelter can protect 5,500 persons.

It can be filled in four minutes through three entrances, one for automobile traffic.

If fire rages above ground, the ventilation system can be closed and the trapped air constantly "revived" with oxygen machines. Deep baffles are sliced in the main entrance tunnel to pocket much of the blast before it reaches the 2-foot-thick 20-ton steel doors which can seal the narrow entrances in seconds.

Sweden is pushing "standard" shelters for those who can't be taken care of in the big rock caverns. All builders of new housing units are required to provide shelters safe against a 10-megaton bomb blast three miles away. There are now standard shelters for 1,500,000 of Sweden's 7,000,000 people.

Eighteen years ago, some Swedish factories began going underground. The engine manufacturing firm of Bolinder-Munktel was the first. The program concentrates on key wartime industries.

The SAAB Aircraft Company has an underground factory which required the excavation of more than five million cubic feet of granite. The AGA gas-producing plant in a Stockholm suburb has been burrowed into a granite hill.

Arms, turbines, precision instruments and engineering products are produced underground in factories with ceilings from 50 to 80 feet thick. Much of Sweden's power output is underground. Hospitals, munitions and fuel dumps are also lodged in rock.

The Swedish defense forces, like the American, have their own underground establishments. But the Swedes go further.

Their air force has hangars and even runways deep in the granite rock. Fighters and bombers can start their take-offs far back underground.

"Rock garages" protected by armored entrance doors are being built for all Sweden's destroyers and submarines.

The Doctor Says

Mental Patient's Return Home Poses Problems

By Harold Thomas Hyman, M.D.

Quite aside from its devastating effects on the patient, severe mental illness places grave responsibilities on members of the immediate family. It also raises continuing problems whose solutions often raise additional problems, sometimes of increasing perplexity.

Here's an illustration. Consider the plight of the family that has struggled with the problem of hospitalization of a dear one. They've finally agreed it's best for all concerned for the patient to be "put away."

No sooner has the unfortunate person entered an institution than he begins to be taken home. The food is no good. The bed is too hard or too soft. There's friction with other patients. Attendants are inattentive. The doctor is always in a hurry.

And then, on the emotional side, there are pleas such as missing the parents or the children, the old homestead, familiar faces, one's own things and so on. Eventually the day comes when the person is released, either as a result of these heart-rending pleas or because, thanks to treatment, there has been sufficient improvement to try a cautious return to the world beyond institutional walls.

What happens then is the subject of a highly informative pamphlet called "Mental Aftercare" obtainable at a cost of 25 cents from the Public Affairs Committee, a nonprofit organization located at 22 East 38 st., New York 16, N. Y.

Here are some of the conclusions reached in this study:

"Families that may have agitated for years to get a patient released from a mental hospital may prove utterly inept in coping with the patient when he does return home and have been known to call for his rehospitalization at the slightest alarm."

"Studies of returned patients and their families show that, although families try, they are often anxious. They watch the patient suspiciously, dreading the onset of symptoms of recurring illness."

"It is significant that patients who live alone and without undue family pressures often improve more rapidly and go back to work faster than those who return to their families."

In another column I'll tell you what's being done to improve mental aftercare.

Halloweens Have Gentled Into Less Harmful Times

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Whatever happened to the old-fashioned Halloween?

This is the night bats fly, witches cackle weirdly as they soar through the sky on jet-fast broomsticks, and skeletons dance in their bones in the streets, pursued by red devils with rubber pitchforks.

Your doorbell may ring many times. If you open it you are likely to see a group of small costumed monsters, each holding up a container.

"Trick or treat!" they yell in chorus.

"Treat, if you please," you answer, and if you hand them a dime each or some pieces of candy, the mollified monsters go on to the next door, usually followed at an unobtrusive distance by a cautious parent.

But what happens if you reply, "Trick!"

Probably nothing. The tiny monsters look uncertainly at each other, then go away. They are so used to getting treats they don't know any tricks to play on a householder to force him into granting their demands.

I don't know when this "trick or treat" ultimatum got started, but a generation ago it wasn't so popular in many parts of the country.

Halloween wasn't an evening of harmless fun but the most dreaded night of the year to grownups. Children were generally more obedient to their elders in those days, but one night of the 365 they threw off the halts and roamed like wild things.

The kids then didn't seek treats from adults. On Halloween they wanted to play tricks. They were one-night rebels, out to ridicule and humiliate the grownups. They were in full revolt against authority.

In the farm areas robust teenagers took a particular joy in pushing over outhouses. In the cities they spilled garbage pails on front porches. They soaped store windows, cars, home windows. They painted or chalked defiant messages on the steps or sidewalks of "the old crank" who seemed to dwell in every neighborhood.

The old-fashioned Halloween was a nuisance and an annoyance to most adults, a time of vexation and often of expense, as some of the pranks were costly if not downright dangerous.

Halloween now—like the Fourth of July—has been gentled into a safer and more harmless holiday. The little demons prefer to be bribed rather than play tricks.

ASC Office Manager

MOUND CITY, Mo. (AP)—The Holt County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Committee fired its office manager Monday.

Dale Williams had held the job 20 months. No cause was given for the dismissal.

John W. Dickey Jr. of Gallatin, state ASC field man for northwest Missouri, said the committee's action "is in line with the policy of the state ASC committee in allowing county committees to run the business of their offices."

John Gotschall, ASC office manager in Daviess County, resigned Friday, Dickey disclosed.

Swine Worries Will Be Probed By University

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Do hogs, like humans, worry themselves into having stomach ulcers?

Purdue University has been given $45,000 to find out.

The National Institute of Health granted the money for research by Dr. G. D. Goetsch and Dr. T. M. Curtin of the Purdue Veterinary School. It is hoped the project also may result in something to help prevent or treat ulcers in humans.

Dr. Goetsch said he believes increasing swine ulcers are caused

To Halt Leaks

MU Stops Open Practice Sessions for Tiger Squad

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Missouri University has abandoned its long-established custom of open football practice sessions because of information leaks that could prove valuable to opponents and gamblers.

Coach Dan Devine, who announced the ruling, emphasized that most of the leaks were by local Missouri rooters and were not intended to do the team harm. But some, he said, were not.

He said he had tried to keep secret last week the fact that star halfback Norm Beal suffered a practice injury which could keep him out of Saturday's game with Nebraska.

Devine said he learned this information was passed by a loyal alumnus who heard it at a practice session, went home to another Missouri town and talked about it. It soon spread statewide and even to Nebraska, where it was published.

But another incident, which occurred last year, was not so innocent. The student manager of the Tigers heard a Missouri student giving detailed information on a

Friday night to the coach of the next day's opposition on what had transpired during the week's practice. This student was a transfer from the other school.

And said Devine, "we know that gamblers all over the country pay kids to give them information they think will be valuable in helping them set up point spreads."

"It's part of our job to protect this information and not let it be available to someone who'll use it the wrong way."

The Tiger coach noted that most other schools have always utilized secrecy in practice.

"This has been building up for a long time here. We'd like to go on the other way but I figure we must do this in self-defense."

Devine also said a factor in his decision was that a good part of practice involves criticism of a player's work in previous games. "When you've got a lot of people looking on I don't think it's fair for a boy to be criticized. Only the coaches and other players should hear it."

Observers noted that in the Nebraska game, Missouri played without the services of Beal as had been predicted. Missouri won 10-0 but that was below the football card point spread.

Devine said he believed most of the leaked information involved squad condition. "But I'm not naive enough to think that some strategic dope hasn't been passed on."

He said the team will now practice inside a wire fenced enclosure with the gates locked. Persons looking through the fence will be asked, politely, to move on.

Eventually, a canvass covering will probably be put up around the fence.

Missouri faces Colorado Saturday in a game which will go far in deciding the Big Eight Conference championship in a contest between two undefeated teams.

Redskins May Gain A Quarterback

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Redskins lost another game Sunday—their seventh this year and 13th in a row over two seasons—but they may have gained a quarterback.

"Norman Snead played a great game," said Washington Coach Bill McPeak today, "and it came at a crucial point in his career."

The 6-foot-4 rookie from Wake Forest completed 21 of 31 passes for 296 yards and two touchdowns although the Redskins lost 27-24 in the final minute to the Philadelphia Eagles, defending National Football League champions.

Snead will be the starting quarterback again next Sunday when the Redskins play the defensively strong New York Giants at Yankee Stadium.

McPeak, also a rookie as head coach, has gambled on Snead as his quarterback. He swapped off Ralph Guglielmi, 1960 regular at the spot, just before the season began.

This meant Snead had to learn about life in the NFL the hard way—on the field with redogging linemen slamming into him. Most teams figure on taking several seasons to develop a quarterback, working him gradually into the lineup. But McPeak decided the Redskins were desperate. He is bringing Snead along in a crash program.

Snead, a quietly confident type, heard boos for the first time when Washington was shut out for the second consecutive week in a 24-0 defeat by St. Louis. The Cardinal linemen dumped Snead seven times trying to pass and he completed only 7 of 17 passes.

If the Cardinals rough treatment upset the lanky quarterback it didn't show against the Eagles. He had the poise of a veteran.

With five minutes remaining and the Redskins trailing 20-17, Snead directed an 81-yard drive that put Washington ahead 24-20.

Even when veteran Sonny Jurgensen miraculously drove the Eagles back with three brilliant passes—the last a 41-yard game winner to Tommy McDonald with 16 seconds left—Snead gave the Eagles something to shudder about.

On the last play he connected on a 49-yard pass to halfback Dick James, who was downed on the Philadelphia 31 by the last man between him and the end zone.

Settlement Reached On Joan Davis Will

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A settlement has been reached in the contest over actress Joan Davis' will. Her ex-husband, Si Wills, 57, receives assets worth $52,000. The actress' daughter, Beverly Colbert, 27, receives the rest of the more than $1-million estate in a compromise disclosed Monday.

Bing's New Heir Has Cute Dimple

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Nathaniel Patrick Crosby, age 2 days, is considered quite photogenic—at least by his mother.

"He has the cutest dimple on his chin," said Kathy Crosby about the newest son of singer Bing Crosby, born Sunday night.

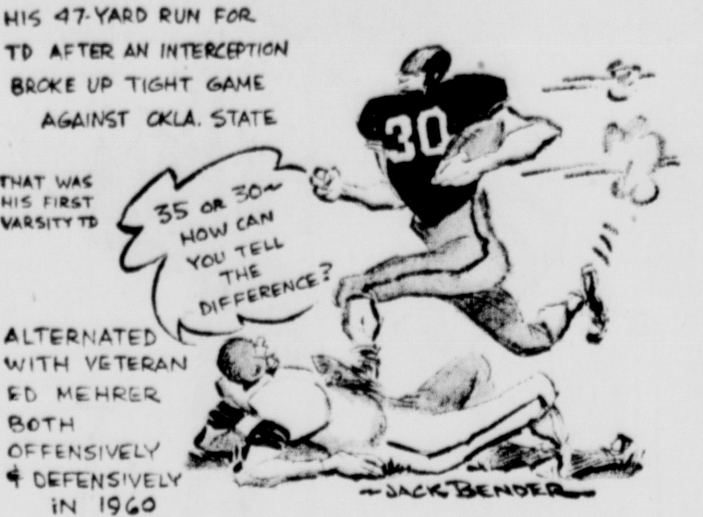

To Defense Post

PARIS (AP)—Lt. Gen. Andre Puget Monday was named chief of staff of national defense, a post comparable to the chairman of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Puget, the first air force general to be appointed to this top military position, succeeds Gen. Jean Ollie, who retired because of ill health.

Texas Proves Itself

Longhorns Win Toughest Game

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

It is pretty hard not to believe in this current Texas football team. It has proven itself.

The Longhorns have won their two toughest games of the season—and on successive Saturdays. First they battered Southwest Conference toughie Arkansas 33-7 and last week beat Rice 34-7.

The figures are more convincing: No. 3 ranking nationally, the nation's best over-all offense and top rushing offense; fifth best scoring team; and ninth in total defense.

The end result, to date: A 6-0 over-all record and first place in the SWC with 3-0.

Southern Methodist, this week's opponent, evidently is impressed. "A team that should be No. 1 in the nation" was the way scout Ralph Hawkins characterized the Longhorns after watching them manhandle Rice.

A top offensive star, quarterback James Earl Wright of Memphis State, is finished for the season because of a torn knee cartilage. He led the nation in individual total offense before being injured two weeks ago and last week was reintegrated against Mississippi State.

Coach Dan Devine of Missouri has ruled that all of his practice sessions from now on will be secret to prevent information leaks to both opponents and to gamblers.

Duke Coach Bill Murray hoped for a repeat performance this week from his defense that must face Michigan. Last Saturday the Blue Devils in winning 17-6, forced North Carolina State to punt nine times. The Wolverines may not have tackle John Schopf and fullback Ken Tureaud.

Top-ranked Michigan State may be without soph halfback Herman Johnson because of injuries for its crucial Big Ten game against Minnesota while the Gophers' Bill Munsey, a halfback, returned and another halfback, Tommy King, also was pronounced ready to go.

Center Tom Hecovich, fullback Mike Lind, end Jim Kelly and guard Nick Buoniconti of Notre Dame are all doubtful for the Navy game while Sophs Cloyd Webb, an end, and halfback Paul Krause took over first-string spots at Iowa at it prepared for a Big Ten game against Ohio State.

Party Line Is Cause of Delay In Home Blaze

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—John Gentry ran to the telephone when fire broke out in his home Monday.

Someone was talking on the four-party line.

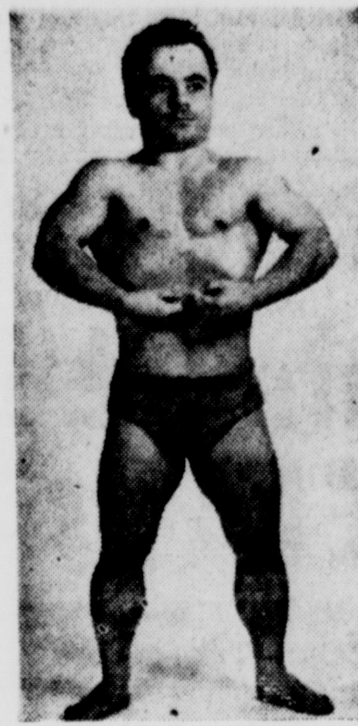

"I told them, 'Please give me the line! My house is on fire!'" Gentry said, "but a man said 'Oh, yeah, we know. My house is on fire, too.'"

Gentry's wife finally ran to a neighbor's house to call firemen. Battalion Chief Robert Howard said he couldn't tell how much of the $2,200 damage was due to the lost time, but the delay "certainly was a factor."

Austin Puts His Title On the Line

Tonight's a crucial one for Buddy Austin, kingpin of the Missouri-Kansas wrestling corps these last several months.

The giant, hard-hitting Californian will place his Central States championship on the line at Convention Hall against one of the most qualified challengers in the area, Guy LaRose.

Lord Littlebrook

Their pairing will highlight a big, five-hour card which also will include midget and gal grapplers.

Team action will match Millie Stafford and Midget Lord Littlebrook against Mae Goodson and Bull Brummel in what should be an eventful affair since both girls are prone to clawing and slugging, and the midgets are ever bit as active as the heavyweights.

A third event will pit Tarzan Tyler and Ray Gordon in a battle of strength and skill, with the winner due to step up a notch on the contender's list. Separate events will match the two midgets, and Stafford vs. Goodson.

For Austin, LaRose poses a real challenge. The well-muscled Canadian, who has vaulted to the front on virtually one successful hold—the atomic leg stretcher, is both a scientific-styled workman and a rowdy when he has to be. He has shown in previous clashes that he has the ability, stamina and punch to go either way.

Austin's big worry will be over LaRose's speed and co-ordination. LaRose has been especially quick to escape pinning holds and reverse a trap. His reflexes are faster than the average wrestler and, coupled with his fleetness, figure to help him out of any jams Austin may force him into. At the same time, the Canadian will be trying for the clincher with the leg hold.

Carrier Reacts Well In Tests

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP)—The nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise performed perfectly in all respects during major power trials off the Virginia capes Monday, according to her builder.

William E. Blewett Jr., head of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co., flew home from the big flattop with word that her performance was "even better than expectations."

The 85,000-ton, $342-million Enterprise has been undergoing sea trials since Sunday. She's to return to her berth Friday afternoon and be commissioned Nov. 25.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a girl, 18, who graduated from a small town high school and came to the city to work. I got a job as a receptionist with a big company where I meet a lot of people—especially salesmen.

Three weeks ago a very attractive guy came in. He seemed awfully refined so I accepted a dinner date with him. He took me to a lovely place and we had a few drinks and danced and he said he was a lover of classical music and asked if I had any records.

To make a long story short he came to my place. We had some more drinks and he recited poetry and talked about Albert Schweitzer and Zen and things like that.

I hate to admit it but I got weak and let my heart rule my head. He promised to phone in a few days to make a date for the week end. Well, almost three weeks have gone by and I haven't heard from him. I can't believe he was giving me a line. Something terrible must have happened to him. What do you think?—WORRIED

Dear Worried: Something terrible happened all right. But it happened to YOU—not him.

The picture usually looks different through male eyes. He gave you a big pitch and you went for it. Why should he come back? The sample was ample.

Dear Ann Landers: The fellow next door is seven months younger than I am. We grew up together and I have no romantic interest in him at all. He is like a relative.

I'm a high school sophomore now and he is just a lowly freshman. He has already invited me to go to the Christmas dance with him. I don't want to accept. Besides being like a relative, he's a lousy dancer.

My mother says I must be considerate of his feelings. I also realize that some time in the future I may be stuck for a date and he would come in mighty handy. So, you see, I'm on the—HORNS OF A DILEMMA

Dear Horns: Level with the guy and tell him exactly how you feel. If he's willing to serve as an emergency parachute—fine. In exchange for his generosity, teach him how to dance.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband used to be a heavy drinker. He hit bottom and I had just about given up hope when a friend took him to an A.A. meeting. He's been dry for almost five years now and I can't tell you what a difference it has made in my life.

Tom works in a warehouse where the men are constantly drinking on the job. Every night when he comes home from work he tells me how they pass the bottle around. When he refuses they kid him about "being afraid of his old lady."

I love my husband and I want to keep him well and sober. What can I do?—MRS. TOM

Dear Mrs. Tom: Booze fighters need constant encouragement. Keep his ego bolstered by telling him how much you love him and how proud you are of his victory. Encourage him to go to A.A. meetings regularly. When he offers his hand to help lift a fallen brother—as he was helped—he gains renewed strength for his own fight.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Rayburn's Last Days Will Be Spent at Home

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn returns today to his home in Bonham to end his days among "those friends and neighbors who for so long have given me a love and loyalty unsurpassed in any annals."

The decision to move the 79-year-old Texas Democrat, incurably ill with cancer, was announced Monday by Baylor Hospital and Rayburn's administrative assistant, John Holton.

Both statements said there had been no apparent results yet from the drugs and irradiation therapy which doctors said would not cure Rayburn but might prolong his life.

Rayburn entered the hospital Oct. 2, complaining of a backache which he blamed on lumbago. Holton said he could not disclose, because of a standing request from Rayburn's family, whether the speaker knows the seriousness of his condition.

After his return home, Rayburn will be treated by his personal physician, Dr. Jose Risser of Bonham.

Holton's statement, issued in behalf of Rayburn's family, said that "in making this decision to return him to Bonham, the determining factor was the speaker's often expressed desire to end his days among, in his words, 'those friends and neighbors who for so long have given me a love and a loyalty unsurpassed in any annals.'"

Asked to Discuss South Africa Moves

UNITED NATIONS N.Y. (AP)—Nine African nations and Iraq called for U. N. Security Council discussion that could lead to expulsion of South Africa from the United Nations because of its white supremacy policies.

A resolution citing South Africa's refusal to alter its apartheid policy as grounds for the action was accompanied with a recommendation that countries of the world cut diplomatic relations, shipping and air links and a trade boycott.

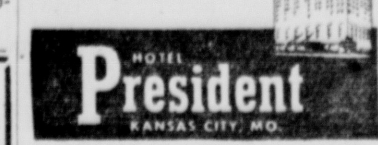

Ghana initiated the move. Other sponsors are the Congo (Leopoldville), Guinea, Iraq, Libya, Mali, Sierra Leone, Somalia, Sudan and the United Arab Republic.

Fake American Cash Found In Melbourne

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—Hundreds of counterfeit U. S. dollars have been detected in Melbourne and Sydney in the last three months, National Bank of Australia said Monday. Fake $50 and $100 bills also have been passed in Melbourne banks recently.

Auto Shortage May Hurt Some New Car Sales

DETROIT (AP)—The auto dealer's problem of having the right car at the right time to complete a sale is proving more difficult this fall than ever before.

Strikes which delayed, disrupted and curtailed supplies of 1962 models have intensified the situation.

At current selling rates dealers have in stock a 35 day supply of cars. Many dealers claim a 30 day supply is adequate. Yet a number of industry observers maintain sales have been restricted by inadequate inventories.

The present inventory of about 700,000 shows a shortage of some of the cars most in demand. This is especially true regarding the newest cars, such as the Buick Special with a V-6 engine and the new compact Chevy II.

Manufacturers are reluctant to rush into high volume production with a totally new engine or car, hoping to make certain in advance that all bugs have been removed.

Plan Hearings To Probe Poor Turkey Market

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Department of Agriculture has scheduled a hearing at Des Moines on Nov. 24-27 and another at Oklahoma City on Dec. 4-6 on proposed marketing orders for the turkey industry.

A National Turkey Advisory Committee, appointed several weeks ago, has recommended the marketing orders. This year's record turkey crop has pushed prices down so far producers are reporting heavy losses.

One of the proposed orders would control the number of eggs that could be set for hatching. The other would control the quantity of processed turkeys that could be sold. They would have to be approved by two-thirds of the producers voting in a referendum.

COMPACT DODGE LANCER GT

FULL-SIZE DODGE DART 40

DEPENDABILITY DOESN'T HAVE TO BE DULL

Any 1962 Dodge, full-size or compact, is the proof of that. Every one has a rustproofed body. Every one has a quiet, new high-speed starter that puts less strain on the battery. Every one will go 32,000 miles between grease jobs. Dependable? There's never been a Dodge that wasn't. Dull? Drive one. They are swift automobiles. Our full-size Dodge Dart will accelerate seven percent faster than last year's comparable model, and will do it on five percent less fuel. That's because dead weight has been engineered out. Our compact, the Lancer GT, corners flat, handles neat, and leaves the weak sisters cold. Every 1962 Dodge has chair-high seats and good looking interiors. You're going to like what's happened to Dodge. Now drive THE NEW LEAN BREED OF DODGE

No Soviet-Chinese Bloc, Says Russian

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—A Soviet spokesman asserted Monday "there is no such thing as a Soviet-Chinese bloc."

M. V. Lavrichenko, a Soviet economic affairs expert in the U. N. Assembly Economic Committee, objected to use of the term by M. W. Errook, British delegate, who in turn was objecting to the statement of a delegate from White Russia about Britain's interest in Iraq oil.

Errook acknowledged "perhaps we should not have made a reference to a Soviet-China bloc. I am probably out of date on this."

The Business World

Businesses Learn Illness And Its Prevention Costly

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Illness—and its prevention—grows more costly. Individuals don't have to be told this. And business is finding it more expensive, too. Both are well aware of the rise in medical and hospital costs in recent years.

More firms are offering employee medical services. This grows both more extensive and more expensive. Companies also are increasingly involved in meeting all or part of their employees' health insurance costs.

Medical fees and hospital care grow more expensive because costs themselves have gone up but also because care is increasingly being widened and improved.

Hospitals have higher operating costs and pay employees more. They also offer services today with equipment unknown a few years back. New drugs, new doctoring and nursing techniques, new equipment—all push up costs. Adding to the total outlay is that Americans, with increased incomes, are seeking more medical care all the time. Each year a larger share of the spending is for prevention rather than cure.

This all adds up to more than $16 billion a year that Americans now pay for medical service.

Many individuals have had to go into debt to meet costs in major emergencies. But many have had help from various sources little used by earlier generations.

One is from health insurance payments. Insurance companies are estimated to have paid out $3 billion in benefits in 1960.

A second aid to individuals faced with illness or accidents is the growing role of corporate medical departments.

Those offer services all the way from preventative shots for influenza and other epidemics and patching up of on-job injuries to regular and complete medical examinations—the latter usually for the top echelon of executives or key employees.

Higher salaries in the medical departments, increased supply and equipment costs, and expanded medical facilities are cited as reasons for the rise in spending.
